

I think that gratuitous violence and sexual content on the airwaves these days is desensitizing our youth to the negative impacts of both on society and worsening those impacts. Parents play a role, but irresponsible programming and the advertising dollars that drive that programming also bear some responsibility.